FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ALEGO HEALTH PRESIDENT JACQUELINE FORESTALL NAMED 2013 CRAIN'S
CLEVELAND BUSINESS WOMAN OF NOTE

Cleveland, Ohio – May 8, 2013 – Alego Health, a national provider of industry leading healthcare information technology consulting and staffing services, announced today that its President, Jacqueline Forestall, has been named a 2013 Woman of Note by the esteemed publication Crain's Cleveland Business.

"It is great to see that Jackie is receiving this long overdue award, she has been a great leader and mentor to me as well as many others in her career", said Jonathan Levoy, Vice President of Business Development and Technology. "We are all very proud of her and I know that the women in the office are even more impressed and proud of her accomplishment. I have seen firsthand what a great role model Jackie is for women in the workforce and it is always beneficial for an organization to have that type of person at the top."

Crain's recognizes the region's women of great accomplishment each year in an issue dedicated to honoring the success they have achieved for themselves, as well as their organization and colleagues. The Women of Note issue shares their inspirational stories of dedication, passion, and strength with all of Northeast Ohio. Winners of the award are chosen amongst nominees by a panel of Crain's editors and reporters, based on their contribution to making Northeast Ohio a better place to live and work.

After a long and distinguished career as a hospital administrator with a background in healthcare labor relations, Jacqueline Forestall founded Alego Health in September of 2004. Through her guidance Alego Health has become a national leader in client satisfaction, client retention and innovative technology in the Healthcare IT Solutions Industry. "I am so very honored to be receiving this nomination", stated Jacqueline Forestall. "I view this award as a tribute not only to myself but to all of the great women I have had the honor to work with, and who have mentored me throughout my career."

Crain's will be hosting an event to showcase the honorees on Thursday, July 18, 2013 from 11:30am – 1:30pm at LaCentre Conference & Banquet Facility in Westlake, Ohio. Contact Denise Donaldson at 216-771-5159 or ddonaldson@crain.com for more information on this event.
